STRANGE STORY OF MYSTERIOUS 'MAN OR SPIRIT'

Albuquerque Citizen Sure He Has Seen in Tijeras Canyon, Ancient Guardian of Sandias.

A prominent Albuquerque citizen, one who does not wish to have his name mentioned in this connection but one in whose word the utmost confidence can be placed, yesterday returned from an auto trip in the Tijeras canyon with a strange tale to tell of an aged patriarch who evidently makes his home in some cave in the Sandias a few miles from the entrance to the canyon and lives the life of a recluse and a hermit, keeping himself from the eyes of man.

The automobile party in question was returning to the city in dusk last evening and had reached a point on the return trip about four miles from the mouth of the canyon when a strange sight was encountered. An old man with flowing whiskers reaching to his waist, wearing a long, flowing garb and depending upon a staff for support was seen to emerge from behind a large rock, closely followed by a burro. Evidently he was not aware that anyone was near and at first sight of the strangers he seemed inclined to flight, but on second thought he stopped and regarded them gravely for a time and then made some strange signs with his hands which were not understood. A moment later he moved a few steps to his right and then apparently disappeared through solid rock.

While the members of the auto party felt somewhat "creepy" at seeing the apparition, it was decided to investigate. A careful search failed to reveal any opening or cave into which the man could have disappeared, and it seemed that the earth had literally swallowed him up. The searchers would have been inclined to doubt their senses had not the burro been there as evidence that at least a part of the apparition had been real.

From the old man's appearance it was judged that he must be of very great age. Some inquiry was made at two houses in the canyon but no satisfactory information was obtained. At one house there were mysterious shakings of the head and intimations that the rocks were inhabited by the spirit of an old man who at one time was protector of the mountains as all the overlook. The tale was told that either he or his spirit had been seen once many years ago and that during the Spanish occupation he used to come out of his hiding to visit the Spanish padres in the valley.

Whatever the story, the members of the auto party are sure that they saw a venerable old man of strange appearance and that he disappeared before their very eyes into rocks where there was apparently no place to hide.

'DON QUIXOTE' AND 'THE BRIGHT LIGHTS' AT PASTIME THEATER

De Wolf Hopper's debut as a motion picture star is announced for the coming week. The long comedian will be seen as the leading member of the Triangle-Fine Arts company present in the first edition of the Cervantes classic, "Don Quixote."

More than two months were spent in producing for the screen the story of the famous old idealist, who was too impractical to achieve his aims. David N. Greif, under whose supervision the production was made, believes that "Don Quixote" accomplishes a distinct step forward for film drama, and that it has a definite and positive educational value.

Most readers will doubtless remember the old don as a muddle-headed individual who tried to defeat a windmill with his lance, but came a cropper, and will recall that this had something to do with his thinking himself a knight errant riding about the world to redress wrongs. But there is much more than that to the story. Cervantes, in his satire, not only pokes fun at the impractical idealist, but creates a character of unusual fancy and a humorous narrative that is virtually without a plot.

Hopper is said to have achieved a most faithful interpretation of the character. In his support Fay Tincher appears as Dulcinea; Max Davidson, Sancho Panza; Theda Mitchell, Lucinda; Chester Withey, Don Fernando. And lastly there are Rosalinda and Dapple, the don's ancient steed and Sancho's educated mule.

In addition to the drama "Fatty" Arnold and Mabel Normand, two of the most popular comedians on the screen, will be seen in a screaming two-reel comedy entitled "The Bright Lights."

Both these photoplays are scheduled for today and tomorrow at the Pastime theater.

GALLUP VISITORS FIND SENTIMENT HERE FAVORABLE

Meeting at Commercial Club Sparsely Attended, but Expression of Speakers Show Albuquerque's Feeling.

While Albuquerque's attendance at the meeting held last night at the Commercial club, was slim, visitors from Gallup learned from those who were there that the disposition exists to treat the Carbon city fairly in the matter of directing automobile travel.

Clarke M. Carr, president of the Commercial club, offered to appoint a committee to co-operate with Gallup business men, looking to the improvement of the road. He believed, he said, he could assure the visitors that Albuquerque would return their visit when the road was signed. Mr. Carr did not believe it was any one's intention to turn tourists away from Gallup.

Several Albuquerque men gave short talks. Ray Stamm thought, if stress were not laid on the Gallup route, travelers should, at least, be told of both routes west. There is no question that the Gallup highway has the scenery, he said. Roy Stamm explained that the small attendance was not indicative of the amount of local sentiment. He spoke of an excursion to Gallup when the road was signed. After the meeting the visitors, including the women of the party, were entertained at the Elks' club.

GALUSHA PRESENTED WITH GOLD CHIEF'S STAR BY HIS FRIENDS

Friends of J. R. Galusha, of the police department, yesterday afternoon presented him with a gold chief's star. Frank Butt made the presentation in behalf of the new police executive's friends. There was no formal call about it. Mr. Butt simply called Chief Galusha to his store and handed him the star, telling him that friends gave it.

The star is a handsome decoration. The five-pointed figure, encircled by a gold band, hangs from a bar of the same metal by chains. On the bar, the chief's name is engraved. In the center is the seal of the state of New Mexico.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS.

"Chimmie Fadden"

So great was the success of Victor Moore in the Jesse L. Lasky production of "Chimmie Fadden," that the company secured Mr. Moore's services for a long term of years for a series of stories founded on the adventures of the same character.

Mr. Cecil B. DeMille, the director general of the Lasky company, has felt for some time that the public would appreciate high class comedy on the screen; that as many laughs could be secured in this kind of comedy as could be obtained by the slapstick methods. With this aim in view, he produced the first "Chimmie Fadden" picture. Instantaneous was its success. The public, surfeited with the slapstick order of fun, responded quickly to the new type of humor and credited Victor Moore as "Chimmie Fadden" with being the funniest man ever seen on the screen. Mr. Moore's fun was obtained not by grotesque make-up or a frolicsome walk, but by cleverly constructed situations and the methods of legitimate comedy.

The first of the series of "Chimmie Fadden" stories, in which Mr. Moore is to appear, is entitled "Chimmie Fadden Out West" and shows the Bowery boy here in the wilds of Death valley finding a gold mine and returning east supposedly a millionaire.

The same cast which supported Mr. Moore in the first "Chimmie Fadden" story, will be retained for the series and includes such prominent artists as Camille Astor, Raymond Hatton, Mrs. Lewis McCord, Tom Forman, Anita King, Ernest Joy, Florence Dagmar and other members of the Lasky all-star organization.
